

NOVEMBER 2025

Dear St. Andrew's Family,

The theme for the 2025 Diocesan Convention was "Watershed Moments." In Rawlins, delegates, clergy, and other leaders from around the Diocese gathered for business and fellowship. We voted on the proposed 2026 diocesan budget and proposed resolutions. We were inspired by Episcopal leaders, we celebrated Wyoming Episcopal identity and fellowship, and we elected members of Diocesan leadership teams.

A watershed moment is a place and time where the waters change direction. The waters might flow into new rivers, basins and seas. The waters will go on to nourish different climates and species. In our liturgical calendar, we find watershed moments in the penitential seasons of Advent and Lent, when we are called to reflect, repent, and change direction so that Christ's living water might more freely flow through our lives.

The Diocese is at a watershed moment as it prepares to search for a Bishop Diocesan. Leaders on the Standing Committee, Diocesan Council, Commission on Ministry, Foundation, and Diocesan Staff have worked hard to learn from past Bishop-Diocese relationships. As a Diocese, we do not want our next Bishop to be someone who comes in with an existing vision of what we must be, and who then tries to mold us to fit that vision. Rather, we are seeking a leader who will celebrate all that we are as Episcopal churches in Wyoming, and who is up for the challenge of coming alongside us to grow and innovate in the years ahead.

Here at St. Andrew's in the Pines, we are also at a watershed moment. Your vestry leaders have worked hard to prepare rector search documents that reflect us at our best, and that clearly articulate the kind of pastoral leader we are seeking. In the weeks ahead, you will have the opportunity to share feedback on these documents before they are publicized and the search officially begins.

For all the good and necessary work that happened at Convention, my favorite part was a session that was not on the agenda. During one of the educational breakout sessions, some members of your vestry and lay worship leader team chose to opt out of the official programming and have a generative discussion (with the help of our supply priest plus, Rev. Mary Caucutt) about our watershed moment at St. Andrew's. Inspired by the keynote speaker, Bishop Michael Hunn of the Diocese of the Rio Grande, we reflected on how it would feel to partner with a clergy person who prioritized relational, generative ministry. We considered practicalities of calling a rector who would help us continue nourishing St. Andrew's as we are, while actively exploring how we can grow. For example, we might continue to have lay worship leader-led services once or twice each month, because we expect our rector to be actively taking time to explore new avenues for formation, worship, and community-building beyond Sunday mornings. What could it look like for St. Andrew's, in the years ahead, to become a "double-helixed" model of faith community, blending beloved heritage with new growth, one living body with diverse expressions suited to God's calling for our time and place?

Your perspective matters as we discern how this watershed moment will shape the future of St. Andrew's. Prayerfully review the rector search documents, and share your hopes, fears, and insights as we prepare for a rush of living water.

GETTING TO KNOW: PEGGY BRYANT

My name is Peggy Bryant. We moved to Cora in 2003. The friendly people I met went to St. Andrew's, so I joined them. I think the Pinedale area is similar to where we lived in Alaska for 25 years. People are capable of tackling a variety of tasks that need to be met, while also being a social and generous community given winter's hardness. I like the spring dazzle season of sun and moonlight on snow cover.

I was born in San Francisco, Ca. My father instilled a love of camping in his kids, and my siblings live in Montana, Oregon and Arizona. I graduated from University of California, Berkeley. I moved to Denali Park, Alaska and met my husband. We worked as biologists in the Interior and Arctic. I am attracted to northern climes and Pinedale area reminds me of places in Norway and Finland.

I read the New York Times, Louise Penny, science and archeology articles. I support wildlife related-projects, as the deer and antelope move through Cora. I call politicians about human safety issues such as vaccines, food security, and on environmental and water issues.

I am a good observer of small details and like living on a sagebrush terrain. We spend a few months each year near Kanab, Utah on the Colorado Plateau in another sage brush location. I miss this church group when we are away.

Memories of St Andrew's include joining the pie assembly crew at Coralee Peterson's house with the Ports as a newbie. Watching the kid in the camel outfit trying to enter the church during the Christmas Pageant. I enjoy the ECW get togethers.

St Andrew's is important to me and I feel comfortable here as I see others in this church active in the community to make sure people's needs are met. The Thanksgiving Dinner, Christmas Community Carol program, Halloween candy on the steps of the church, the laundry & soap program, mental health meetings, other groups using the Church building, plus the Food Basket give us all a chance to help others. I have faith that needs and wishes are met. The purpose of the New Testament is that Jesus works through people and all people can benefit. The fact that Nelson Mandela was released from prison and was the President of South Africa is a true miracle to me. I see small miracles around me all the time.

St. Andrew's in the Pines Vestry Minutes
September 8, 2025

1. Opening Prayer
2. Call to Order: 5:40 pm. Present: Sukey Hohl, Senior Warden, Sarah Hixson, Junior Warden, Joni Mack, Treasurer, Julie Belton, Clerk, and Sandy Cenac and Erin Hastey via Zoom.
3. August Minutes: Joni moved to have the August Minutes accepted as presented, Sarah seconded and the motion passed unanimously.
4. Rectory Update: Joni reported that the electrical work is now completed. Because it took longer than expected, our contractor Josh is recommending that they now focus on getting the house exterior prepped and painted while the weather is still good. Sukey and Joni are working with Josh on paint and finishes that keep within the budget. They are planning for a fresh, light, neutral and cohesive look.
5. Treasurer's Report/Grants/Fundraising: Income is very close to what was budgeted and expenses are on track also. The outreach checks approved at the August meeting have been sent out. There was some discussion about the Boulder Roll funds and it was agreed that if the Boulder Roll folks want the money to go into the mental health fund, that would be fine, but they should take over their own spending for anything else since they have their own 501 (c) (3) status now. The Audit Committee has met and should be done by September 30. Julie moved to accept the Treasurer's Report, Sarah seconded, The motion passed unanimously.
6. Stewardship. Joni has written a draft of this year's stewardship letter which everyone agreed is excellent and will suit the purpose. We will continue her harvest theme with cutouts for the lighted trees and have the usual potluck. We will work on finding volunteers to speak about stewardship in the weeks leading up to Stewardship Sunday the third week in November.
7. Transition/Search. Sukey is holding on to our draft profile until the Diocesan staff is done with budget and convention. She is working on culling quotes from the questionnaires and we don't have the photographs from Gretchen Yost yet. We don't expect to get information on how to calculate rector pay until after convention either.
8. Preparation/Refresh: The logs have been cleaned and the steps stained thanks to Sarah Hixson and Andrea Paulsen. The website refresh also has to wait on the new photos. We discussed getting the carpets cleaned. We may need to rent equipment and do it ourselves. We are having technical difficulties with our free Google Drive account and Sukey will look into purchasing one paid account.
9. Miscellaneous
 - A. Bylaws: Bylaws discussion is put off to later. We also discussed developing a Policy/Procedure Manual for St. Andrew's, which will be a major project.
 - B. Upcoming Events: In September we will have another S'More Church, a Genealogy Night and a fall/winter worship committee meeting. The Bishop visit and convention take place in October, we plan to have a Senior Tea at the Sublette Center before Thanksgiving.
 - C. Yellow Jackets: In the process of preparing the steps, Sarah discovered that we have a yellow jacket nest under the bell. It seems to be a terrible year for yellow jackets; they are all over the place. Joni got up in the middle of night twice to spray the nest with multiple cans of poison to no avail. We will get an exterminator.
10. Closing Prayer
11. Meeting adjourned at 6:35 pm.

Thank you, everyone for your generous support of St. Andrew's, especially during this time of transition.

INSTANT POT CURRIED BUTTERNUT SQUASH AND COCONUT SOUP

Adapted from Miyoko Schinner's The Homemade Vegan Pantry

I had a couple of requests for this recipe at our dinner with Bishop Todd a few weeks ago, so I thought I'd share it here. It's one of my favorites this time of year. –

Erin Haste

Ingredients:

- 1 onion, sliced
- 7 cups peeled and cubed butternut squash (about 2 ½ pounds)
- 1 red bell pepper, cored, seeded, and sliced
- 1 celery stalk, sliced
- 3 cups broth (vegetable or chicken)
- 1-2 tablespoons curry powder, depending on your taste and the spiciness of your curry powder
- 7 oz coconut milk (about ½ of a 13.5 oz can)
- 1 to 2 teaspoons lemon zest

Directions:

1. In an Instant Pot or other electric pressure cooker, combine the onion, squash, bell pepper, celery, broth, and curry powder.
2. Cook at high pressure for 22 minutes.
3. Allow the pressure to release naturally if possible; or wait at least ten minutes and release the pressure manually.
4. Using an immersion blender, blend the soup until it is creamy.
5. Stir in the lemon zest and coconut milk.
6. Add salt and ground black pepper to taste.
7. Optional: In a separate, smaller bowl, combine the rest of the can of the coconut milk, 1-2 tablespoons of juice from the lemon, and at least ¼ teaspoon of salt. Use this as your lemon coconut cream to top the soup when serving.

You can make this soup on the stove as well—just add an additional cup of broth and cook the ingredients in step one until the vegetables are very tender. Then proceed from step 4 onward.

Editor's note: if you have a recipe you would like to share with the St. Andrew's community, please submit to Sukey any time.
